

I am scared about the upcoming Presidential election. It is imperative that this election be a fair one. The country can not tolerate another questionable election result. With the needs of the country in mind I ask that the FCC step in and not allow Sinclair to misuse its' corporate power at the expense of the public's trust by airing a slanted program like "Stolen Honor" 2 weeks before the election.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
